2. Which is the most accurate summary of the text ? Circle A, B or C .

John and Benjamin King are brothers. They live in London and work with new sounds and shapes for making music. They haven't always done this, though; for a long time John managed a factory and Benjamin ran a business in Canada. Then, about 30 years ago, they took their savings and began the work they do now. First they learnt all about how classical musical instruments were made, and then they began inventing their own instruments.

Now their lives are quite varied. They are still inventing new instruments; but John has begun working with children as well. He helps them to discover music without having to read written notes. He sometimes travels, too, giving concerts on his instruments with other musicians. Benjamin also travels – sometimes to set up exhibitions, sometimes just for pleasure of arriving a new place.

A	B	C
The King brothers both work at inventing new musical instruments and teaching children to play them.	John and Benjamin King have spent a large part of their lives making new kinds of musical instruments.	The King brothers have recently begun working with new musical instruments: they invent them, teach children how to play them, give concerts and set up exhibitions.
