Task 1 Read the text about breakfast in the U.K.

Breakfast menu

Porridge

English people are more likely to have porridge with brown sugar; while in Scotland many people eat it with salt. A bowl of hot porridge is a nice warm start on a cold morning.

Fruit

The British grow and eat lots of fruit, especially strawberries and raspberries in summer and apples and pears in the autumn.

Full English breakfast

If you usually have a small breakfast, a 'full English' breakfast is quite a surprise. It contains sausages, fried eggs, bacon, baked beans, mushrooms, fried tomatoes and black pudding, a sausage made with pork and pig's blood.

Toast

There will be butter or margarine to spread on the toast. Then there could be a savoury spread, like Marmite, or a sweet spread, like jam or marmalade.

Task 2 Read the texts about owning pets.

Text A

Want to get in shape? Get a dog! Research out today has found that dog owners are among the fittest people in the UK. It's no surprise given that most dogs to walk or play for at least an hour a day. It's hard to ignore a barking dog! It's a great reason to get up and get active!

Other pet owners also had lower blood pressure and reported lower levels of stress than the general population. Perhaps surprisingly, the owners of snakes and lizards were the most relaxed of everyone surveyed.

Text B

Text C

For the first time in many years, the number of people owning pets in the UK is decreasing. The British seem to love animals as much as ever - so what could be behind this trend?

It's clear that the recent economic crisis has made most people think twice about their spending. Looking after a cat or dog can be expensive: with food, toys and veterinary bills to consider. However, even in previous times of economic hardship, the Brits had continued to buy and own pets

It seems that very high house prices might be to blame. Young people can't afford mortgages and are continuing to live in rented property for longer. If you want to rent a house or flat in the UK, you usually have to obey certain rules. Normally you mustn't smoke indoors, and often, you can't keep pets.

Task 2a Decide whether the statements are correct (☑) or incorrect (☒).

- a; Reptile owners are more relaxed than the owners of other animals.
- b; Mortgages are too expensive for young owners.
- c; Most dogs need less than an hour of exercise every day.
- d; British people usually stop buying pets when the economy is bad.
- e; Dogs are one of the most popular pets in the U.K.
- f; Owning a pet can affect your health into a better way.

c; Tanehokahoka was sad, because he knew if none of the birds came to help, his brother’s trees would die, and also his birds would have nowhere to live. Finally, Tanehokahoka turned to Kiwi. “Kiwi, will you come down?”

2. _____

e; One day, Tanemahuta, the god of the forest, looked up at his trees and noticed that they didn’t look healthy. What was making them weak? He discussed the problem with his brother, Tanehokahoka, who looked after all the birds in the sky. Tanemahuta spoke to all the birds: “Something is eating the trees. I need one of you to come down from the sky and live here in the forest, so that the trees can be saved. Who will come?”

f; Then Tanehokahoka turned to the other birds and said, “Tui, because you were too scared to fly down from the sky, from now on you will wear the two white feathers at your neck to show that you are not brave. Pukeko, because you did not want to get your feet wet, you will live forever in the wet ground. Pipiwaharuroa, because you were too busy building your nest, from now on you will never build another nest. Instead, you will lay your eggs in other birds’ nests. But Kiwi, you will become the most well-known and most loved bird of them all.”

3. _____

g; For the third time, Tanehokahoka asked one of his birds to help. “Pipiwaharuroa, will you come down?” Pipiwaharuroa, the cuckoo, looked up at the trees and saw his family in the branches. “I’m sorry, I’m busy at the moment building my nest.”

h; “But Kiwi,” said Tanemahuta, “you will have to grow strong legs so that you can break up the big logs on the ground. And you will lose your beautiful feathers and wings, and then you will never be able to return to the sky. Will you still come down to help?” Kiwi took one last look at all the other birds and said a silent goodbye. “I will.”
