- (8) was adapted for the cinema? _____
- (9) looks at the experiences of a number of generations? _____
- (10) involves situations with employees and clients? _____

A

Mr Bean

At its peak Mr Bean was British television's most popular comedy programme, with 18 million viewers per episode. It has collected numerous awards and the movie 'Bean' has earned a place in the history books as the 1st film ever to earn £100 000 000 at the box office before being released in America. However, its creator Rowan Atkinson insists he is not a funny man. He says 'I am essentially a rather quiet, dull person who just happens to be a performer.' Of course, most people who have seen 'Bean' would disagree with Atkinson's humility. Despite Mr Bean's infantile and vindictive character, tens of millions of people have fallen in love with him. In the beginning Mr Bean was essentially silent. This worked well for Atkinson, who can communicate more with a single raised eyebrow than most comedians can with an entire monologue. In the movie, however, Mr Bean develops an unusual groaning voice. This misfit of a man, who causes chaos wherever he goes, has become an enormously popular comic figure worldwide.

One of Oxbridge graduates who was a member of the cast of 'Monty Python's Flying Circus' was John Cleese. His most notable success, however, came after the 'Python' series. This was Fawlty Towers' which Cleeve both co-wrote and starred in. Cleeve plays Basil Fawlty, a rude, irritable and hot-tempered hotel owner who gets into some outrageous situations with the hotel staff and guests. Cleeve got the idea for the series while on location with the 'Python' crew. They were staying at a hotel in the South of England, where the manager was so rude that the rest of the 'Python' cast checked out. Cleeve and his wife, Connie Booth, who also plays a maid in 'Fawlty Towers', decided to stay and closely studied the comic potential in the behaviour of the owner. Cleeve began writing this classic television comedy in 1973, when the last series of 'Python' was completed.

The 1980s saw women rise to the forefront of British Comedy for the 1st time. Jennifer Saunders was one of those who benefited from this new development. Her first success came in 1987 when Jennifer, together with long-time associate Dawn French, starred and co-wrote the series 'French & Saunders'. Some of the sketches portrayed became the inspiration for Saunders' most successful creation, 'Absolutely Fabulous'. This series was revolutionary, as it showed women behaving badly, which had never been done before. It centred round the character Edina, played by Joanna Lumley. These two characters spend their time partying and mingling with celebrities. Their childish antics continuously cause embarrassment to Edina's disapproving daughter Saffron. This series highlights the ridiculousness of fashion victims and can be seen as a modern-day satire.

Ben Elton is probably the most successful of the Breed of comic writers and comedians who emerged in Britain in the 1980s. He has at least three highly successful television series to his credit, including the unprecedented 'Blackadder' series, but he has never appeared in any of them himself. With the cooperation of Rowan Atkinson and Richard Curtis, Elton created the sharp-witted and spineless Edmond Blackadder, whose evil and cunning would have brought him power and success if it wasn't for his disgusting and stupid sidekick, Baldrick. The four series trace Blackadder and his various descendants' progress through British history, from the time of crusades until the end of World War I. Elton also played an active role in the creation of Mr Bean. However, his collaboration on 'The Thin Blue Line', a series set in a rural police station, met with severe criticism.

SHALL I CALL A DOCTOR?

Task 6 Read the article about the discovery of some dinosaur bones. Six sentences have been removed from the text. Choose from the sentences (A-G) the one which fits each gap. There is an extra sentence.

NEW DINOSAUR DISCOVERY

The dinosaur species known as Gryposaurus monumentensis lived 75 million years ago but people only learnt of its existence at the beginning of the 20th century. Its name means 'hook-beaked lizard of the monument', with monument referring to the place in Utah where this dinosaur's bones were found by a team of archeologists.

(1) _____. It had an enormous bill resembling that of the duck-billed platypus, a curious egg-laying mammal native to Australia. The dinosaur, which existed on a diet of leaves, would have found this extremely useful when it wanted to pull something to eat off a nearby plant.

However, the archeologists who discovered the dinosaur's bones were even more amazed by what they found inside the skull. (2) _____. There was also evidence of many extra ones waiting to drop into place as others wore out.

Taking all the replacements into account, it is estimated that the dinosaur managed to get through approximately 800 teeth during its lifetime. This indicates that Gryposaurus monumentensis chewed its way through a substantial quantity of leaves every day of its life. (3) _____ Tyrannosaurus Rex, the enormous meat-eating dinosaur, for instance, seems to have got by with considerably fewer.

The unusual number of teeth found in the skull suggest that the Gryposaurus monumentensis was a particularly large species of dinosaur. (4) _____. Other bones were discovered in Utah not far from the skull. These made it possible for scientists to calculate that the creature was at least 90 metres in length. The humerus (the bone of the upper arm), for instance, is longer than an adult's man's leg.

At the time when Gryposaurus monumentensis lived in what is now Utah, the area had little in common with its appearance today. (5) _____. Nowadays the region tends to receive relatively little rain and not much grows there.

Dinosaurs with duck bills have also been found a thousand kilometres further north in Canada but they appear to be rather different from those discovered in Utah. (6) _____. Some think that there may have been a mountain system making it impossible for them to move between Utah and Canada, while others believe that they simply had no need to leave an area with plenty of food. However, others are not convinced by either theory. Certainly a great deal more remains to be learnt about Gryposaurus.

- A Otherwise it would never have worn out quite so many of them.
- B The outside of the skull (the bone of the head) that the Utah archeologists discovered was unusual.
- C Scientists are puzzled as to why they do not bear more resemblance to each other.
- D This is in striking contrast to the habitats where other dinosaur bones have been found.
- E And there is evidence to show that this was indeed the case.
- F The creature was seen to possess at least 300 teeth, making it easy for it to grind up the leaves that it ate.
- G It is known to have been wet and swampy there then and the land was covered by plants.

Task 7 Read the text below. Use the word given in capitals at the end of some of the lines to form a word that fits in the gap in the same line.

Training for a long-distance running race

The secret of success when (e.g.) preparing to run in a long-distance race is to remain extremely (1) _____, to train sensibly, and to focus on proper nutrition. It takes more than willpower alone to run several kilometres. There is some (2) _____ over the best way of training, however, and studies have not reached any (3) _____ conclusions.

Nevertheless, successful (4) _____ tend to approach their training in similar ways. They focus on staying healthy and, (5) _____, you may think, are careful not to overtrain. It is (6) _____ to train slightly less, but remain strong and full of (7) _____, than to train too hard and face (8) _____ or injury.

The (9) _____ of healthy diet can never be stressed too much, of course, and you should always eat a good helping of carbohydrates soon after exercising. Another crucial (10) _____ is the need to remain hydrated at all times. Listen to your body: if you feel thirsty, then you need a drink.

- PREPARE
- MOTIVATE
